Frank Robinson was acquired by The Tribe late in the 1974 season from the Angels. For some time he had been lobbying baseball execs that he had managerial aspirations. His opportunity arrived in 1975 when the Indians named him the first African-American manager in major league baseball. On Opening Day against the Yankees at Municipal Stadium, player/manager Robinson homered in his first at bat in the bottom of the first inning-- a game the Indians would go on to win, 5-3. "F Robby" hit second in the line-up and was one for three in the ball game. Very fitting theater for one of the finest players and individuals baseball has ever known. A book entitled, "Frank" (The First Year), was later published documenting the historic season. In reality, it was the new skipper's diary of the monumental '75 campaign. The Indians would be tied for first after the season opening victory, but would not see the top spot again. The ball club would do no better than reach .500 at any time during the year. Robinson's former teammate in Baltimore, "Boog" Powell, led the Tribe with 27 home runs. Powell tied for the team lead in runs batted in with George Hendrick at eighty-six. Hendrick hit 24 homers and led the team with 82 runs scored. Rico Carty added 18 dingers while "Buddy" Bell was tops with 150 base hits. The skipper hit nine home runs and drove in twenty-four. Cleveland hit .261 and led the A.L. with 153 home runs...Fritz Peterson led the pitching staff with 14 victories. Twenty-year old fireballer Dennis Eckersley (13-7) topped the staff in strikeouts with 152 K's. Before his trade to Texas, Gaylord Perry was 6-9 and wound up leading the staff with ten complete games. Roric Harrison and Eric Raich both won seven games. Closer Dave LaRoche whiffed 94 batters. The staff ERA was fifth in the league at 3.84.
