In late September of the 2018 season, John Gibbons said he would not return to manage the Jays in 2019. Enter long-time minor league manager and later bench coach for Tampa Bay, Charlie Montoyo, to get his first shot as a big league skipper...The ball club was 14-15 with a deficit of 5 ½ games from the AL East top spot when April expired, but the season then began to slip away...Three youngsters in the Blue Jays organization with elite major league bloodlines--Vladimir Guerrero, Jr., Cavan Biggio, and Bo Bichette--all made their major league debuts. Guerrero, the most highly regarded, hit 15 homers and drove home 69 runs. Biggio (16 HR, 48 RBI) was impressive, but Bichette (11 homers in 26 games) wowed fans more than the other two. He also posted the best batting average on the team. Randal Grichuk paced the Jays offense (31 HR, 80 RBI, 136 base hits, and 75 runs scored)...The highest number of wins (6) on the pitching staff belonged to three hurlers: Marcus Stroman (later traded to the Mets), Trent Thornton, and reliever Daniel Hudson. Thornton topped the group in strikeouts (149) while Hudson was traded to Washington at the trading deadline, July 31st...As a team, the Blue Jays hit .236 (last in the A. L.) and 247 homers (5th)...The staff ERA ended the year at 4.79 (8th).
