A constant stream of injuries, primarily second-rate pitching, and the tragic death of pitcher Tyler Skaggs on July 1st greatly contributed to the spirit of this Angels team being drained early in the season. They managed to play well enough to be only nine games out of first in the AL West as late as July 16th with a 50-46 record...The Halos finished the year 10th in the A. L. in both batting average (.247) and home runs (220). MVP-candidate Mike Trout was lost to injury late in the season but still put up his typically huge numbers: 45 homers, 104 RBI, and 110 runs scored. David Fletcher banged out 173 base hits to lead the ballclub. Kole Calhoun was second with 33 jacks while Albert Pujols (23 HR) followed Trout with 93 RBI...The pitching staff finished 12th in the league with an alarmingly inflated 5.12 ERA. Reliever Felix Pena topped the staff with eight wins. Andrew Heaney had the most strikeouts (118)...In a familiar scenario, when long-time Angel coach Joe Maddon became available after parting ways with the Cubs, the front-office let Brad Ausmus go after one season as manager and immediately brought the highly-regarded Maddon back into-the-fold as skipper for the 2020 season.
