The Tigers had their troubles hitting...and the pitching was not as sharp as usual: An anemic team batting average of .238 and a staff ERA of 4.09. Detroit finished 29 games behind AL East Champion, Baltimore, who were the victors in eleven of the eighteen games played between the two during the regular season...Team leaders: Jim Northrup (24 home runs, 80 RBI); Willie Horton (17 homers, 69 RBI); Al Kaline (16 home runs, 71 RBI). Mickey Stanley won a Gold Glove for defensive excellence and posted a "triple double" in the batter's box with 21 doubles, 11 triples, and 13 home runs. He also topped the Tigers in hits (143) and runs scored (83). Bill Freehan popped 16 round-trippers...Mickey Lolich was the big winner of the pitching corps with 14 victories. He led the staff with 230 strikeouts and 13 complete games. Denny McLain, only two years removed from a superb 31-victory season, was suspended THREE times and put up a 3-5 record. When he DID pitch he wasn't very good primarily due to over-work (in 1968) and now a sore arm. Joe Niekro and Les Cain each won twelve games...Detroit was sixth in the American League with 148 home runs as a team.
