The Giants suffered their FIRST losing season in San Francisco since moving across the country from New York in 1958...On May 11th, the wonderful era of Willie Mays playing in a Giants uniform ended when he was traded to the Mets for Charlie Williams and $50,000 in cash. The story goes Horace Stoneham, the Giants' owner, was in critical need of money and told Mays he would be traded because the ball club would not be able to pay his salary for 1973...Team leaders: Dave "Sky King" Kingman (29 homers, 83 RBI); Bobby Bonds (26 home runs, 80 RBI, 162 base hits, 118 runs scored); Ron Bryant (14 wins); and Sam McDowell (10-8 Won/Loss record, 86 walks, 122 strikeouts). Bryant completed 11 games and threw four shutouts...The Giants led the National League in homers (150) while hitting .244 as a team and finishing second in the N.L. with 123 stolen bases...The staff ERA was 3.69, ninth in the league...San Francisco was 5-10 versus NL West champ, Cincinnati. They finished TEN games AHEAD of last place San Diego and LAST in attendance with just under 648,000 for the season.
