Fans traveling to Anaheim's "Big A" witnessed an Angels ball club which struggled most of the season. The Halos finished 25 ½ games behind AL West Division champ Oakland--from whom the Angels won seven of eighteen games...The recalcitrant, indifferent Alex Johnson (who DID possess a potent bat when he wanted) was in difficult straits with the front office all season, spending most of his time on the suspended list. He would sometimes simply loaf after fly balls or grounders hit to the outfield...The Angels' first star--and at one time the team's most popular if not best player--Jim Fregosi played his last season with the Angels as a regular slowed significantly by a bad foot...Former Red Sox star Tony Conigliaro ("Tony C.") made a career comeback as a rightfielder in Anaheim, but was a shadow of his former prowess in Boston. A serious eye injury suffered from a horrible beaming several years prior eventually ended a highly promising career. Sandy Alomar, Sr. led the ball club with 179 hits and 77 runs scored...Team leaders: Ken McMullen (21 homers, 68 RBI); Jim Spencer (18 home runs); Andy Messersmith (20 wins, 179 K's, 14 complete games, four shutouts). Clyde "Skeeter" Wright was a 16-game winner. The Angels' staff ERA was 3.10...They hit .231 as a team with 96 homers...Following the season, MGR "Lefty" Phillips and his long-time front office protégé, GM Dick Walsh, were let go. Much of that probably had to do with the fiasco involving Alex Johnson...Postscript: The Angels acquired one Lynn Nolan Ryan from the Mets for fan fave Fregosi in December, 1971...
