The Cubs clinched the NL Central on September 20th, the first time they qualified for the post-season in back-to-back years since “Husk” Chance’s Cubs of 1908. The team’s (AND fans’) dreams of a World Series were dashed by the Dodgers in the NLDS, a three-game sweep by Los Angeles. Manager Lou Piniella was named N.L. Manager of the Year and catcher Geovany Soto won the N.L. Rookie of the Year award. The Cubs placed eight players on the All Star team and were tied with the Angels for the best record in the majors, 57-38, at the break. While in first place, their biggest lead was 10 ½ games on September 22nd....Alfonso Soriano was the team leader with 29 homers. Aramis Ramirez (27 dingers) topped the ball club with 111 RBI. Derrek Lee led the team in hits (181) while Mark DeRosa scored a team high 103 runs. The Cubbies hit .278 for the year and 184 home runs...Ryan Dempster and Ted Lilly both led the pitching staff with 17 wins. Dempster posted the most strikeouts with one hundred eighty-seven. Carlos Zambrano, 14-6 for the season, no-hit the Astros in Milwaukee, September 2nd. A change in venue was necessary because of a hurricane threatening the Gulf Coast near Houston. The staff ERA (3.87) was third in the N.L. They led the league with 1,264 strikeouts.
