Manager Ozzie Guillen stepped down as skipper with two games left in the season to take the same position with the Miami Marlins in 2012. Pitching coach Don Cooper, an elder-statesman on the team, filled in for the last two contests...The popular Paul Konerko led the 112th edition of the White Sox with 31 home runs and 105 runs batted in. Carlos Quentin was next with 24 dingers and 77 RBI. Lefthanded power-hitter Adam Dunn was acquired during the off-season to add more juice to the line-up but he was a huge disappointment. Dunn, spending most of his time as the designated hitter, hit only .159 with eleven homers and 42 RBI while striking out 177 times for the year. Shortstop Alexei Ramirez showed a lot of pop with 15 homers, 70 RBI, 165 hits, and a team leading 81 runs. Juan Pierre was the Sox leader with 178 hits. He scored 80 times. The White Sox hit .252 and 154 home runs for the season...The Sox pitching staff was led by Mark Buehrle's 13 wins. Gavin Floyd won twelve games and led the staff with 151 strikeouts. Philip Humber won nine contests while lefty John Danks was an eight-game winner along with reliever Jesse Crain who struck out 70 batters. Closer Sergio Santos racked up 92 K's...The staff ERA was 4.10...The Sox, at the most, were three games over .500 on August 30th. Their longest winning streak was five games while the longest losing skein was seven. The farthest they were behind the AL Central leader at any point was 16 games on September 28th.
