Dick Allen and his prodigious bat recorded a "triple-double" to lead the Phils offense: 23 home runs, 10 triples, and 31 doubles. His 77 RBI and 89 runs scored were also team highs. The twenty-five-year-old slugger produced the highest on-base-percentage (.404) and OPS (.970) in the National League. Johnny Callison and Don Lock both followed Allen with 14 homers. Callison's 64 RBI were second on the team. Tony Gonzalez had the most base hits (172); he scored 74 times. The Phillies .242 team batting average ranked them seventh in the league at season's end while their home run total (103) placed them sixth...Ace Jim Bunning, who finished second in Cy Young Award balloting, posted major league-leading figures in Starts, Innings Pitched, and Strikeouts (253). He won seventeen games, lost fifteen, and topped the pitching staff in complete games (16) and shutouts (6). Larry Jackson completed eleven ballgames, including four shutouts. He won thirteen and dropped fifteen. Twenty-one-year-old Rick Wise won eleven contests, struck out 111, and completed six which included three shutouts. The staff wrapped up the year with a 3.10 ERA (fourth in the N. L.) and allowed the fewest home runs of all major league teams (86)...This was the last year the Phillies would finish above .500 until 1975.
