The Blue Jays first season with 90-plus wins since 2015 when they were AL East Division champions. For the season, the ballclub played around .500 baseball until a September 19-9 sprint, during which they reached second place as late as September 12th. Their last month surge brought them to within one game of a Wild Card spot. Covid-19 protocol restrictions forced the Jays to play their first 38 "home" games at their training complex in Dunedin, FL. The team then played "home" contests at their Tripe A ballpark in Buffalo before returning to Rogers Centre, July 30th, for the first time since 2019...Vladimir Guerrero, Jr., 22, finished the year among the leaders in batting, but was top dog in three categories: homers (48, tie); runs scored (123); and total bases (363). He was second in RBI (111) on the team to Teoscar Hernandez's 116. Marcus Semien set an MLB record for home runs by a second baseman (45). Semien and Bo Bichette both drove in 102 runs. The Jays offense topped the majors with 262 home runs, a .466 slugging percentage, and .797 OPS...Newcomer Steven Matz and Hyun Jin Ryu led the staff with 14 wins each. Robbie Ray (13-7) was the major league leader with 248 strikeouts; posted the best ERA in the A. L.; and was selected as the American League's CY Young Award winner. Young phenom, Alek Manoah, 23, won nine games and set a team record for the most consecutive strikeouts in a game (7). He totaled 127 K's.
