Chicago's South Side experienced a somewhat un-ordinary season. A virtual unknown, Pedro Grifol, a member of the Kansas City coaching staff and later bench coach for eight years, was named the new Sox manager, November 1st, 2022. Newcomer, pitcher Mike Clevinger, was charged with domestic violence, but never disciplined, and subsequently agreed to seek counseling. The topper came in January 2023 when closer Liam Hendricks announced he was being treated for non-Hodgkin lymphoma cancer. He concluded chemotherapy and made his first appearance May 29th, then was placed on the injured list, June 11th, with an inflamed elbow which resulted in Tommy Surgery, ending his season...After April, one could say the White Sox were out of the race (a ten-game losing streak that month foreshadowed the rest of the year); however, there WERE some highlights/lowlights as well. They pasted the Reds in Cincinnati, May 7th, 17-4, with 18 base hits, one of 15 blowout wins during the season. They scored 11 in the second inning. Earlier, the Giants had routed the Sox 16-6, April 6th, at San Francisco, then rang-up 13 the next day...All Star Luis Robert Jr. whacked 38 home runs and tied Andrew Vaughn (21 jacks) for the most RBI on the team (80). Prior to being traded to Miami at the trade deadline, Jake Burger bashed 25 homers off opposing pitching...Clevinger was the pitching leader with nine wins. Dylan Cease, winner of seven games, was the staff's high-man with 214 strikeouts.
