With the exception of April when they were 7-7, the White Sox achieved a winning record each month for the rest of the season. They spent two short stints in first place in both May and June. At the All Star break, they were five games out of first and second. In the year's second half of the schedule, the Pale Hose DID play very good baseball (47-30, .610); however, the pennant-winning Yankees gradually pulled away going 54-26, .675. The Yanks also won the season series from Chicago ten games to eight...The White Sox pitching staff posted the best ERA in the American League, a stellar 2.97. They allowed the fewest runs (544) and least number of walks (440). The American League's Rookie of the Year, Gary Peters, enjoyed a marvelous campaign, winning 19 games and topping all league hurlers with a 2.33 ERA. The latter mark was third best in the big leagues. He tied for tenth in strikeouts (189). Starter Ray Herbert could boast about an excellent season as well. He won 13 ballgames and finished among major league leaders completing 14 games (tied for 9th) and throwing 7 shutouts (2nd). Juan Pizarro was second on the staff with 16 victories. Hoyt Wilhelm ended the year tied for fourth in the majors in saves...Pete Ward, who was second to Peters in ROY voting and ninth for Most Valuable Player, completed his first full season with 22 homers and team leading 84 RBI. Ward's .835 OPS was also reflected in his team high 34 doubles while his six triples tied two other teammates. Dave Nicholson added 22 home runs and 70 RBI...Twenty-two-year old pitcher Dave DeBusschere led a double life. The future New York Knicks superstar and NBA Hall of Famer also played for his hometown Detroit Pistons in '63. On the baseball diamond, he contributed three wins and 53 strikeouts. DeBusschere pitched a complete game, blanking the Indians, 3-0, August 13th...Catcher J. C. Martin gunned down 44 percent of would be base stealers (15 of 34 attempts).
