Henry Aaron received the third-most votes for the N. L. Most Valuable Player Award (Sandy Koufax won), but he had another MVP-like season. He led the major leagues with eye-popping numbers in these categories: Slugging percentage (.586), OPS (.977), runs scored (121), and runs batted in (130). His batting average tied for fourth; on-base percentage (4th, .391); base hits (tied for second, 201); home runs (tied for second, 44); and stolen bases (third, 31). Eddie Mathews (23 HRs, 84 RBI) once again earned the most walks in the majors (124). Warren Spahn racked up 23 wins (tied for 4th in MLB) and led the majors in complete games (22)...Lou Perini kept his construction steam shovels but sold the ball club he owned 17 years to a group chaired by Bill Bartholomay. Bartholomay already was making overtures to move the franchise. The attendance at County Stadium had dropped off precipitously since 1957, a year they were World Champions, and last post-season appearance (1959). Likewise, fans were unhappy they were forbade to bring their own food and beer into the ballpark.
