With high hopes and new manager Ron Washington in the dugout, the Angels entered the season looking to snap a skein of losing seasons starting in 2016. The year was a huge downer for Halos fans who saw their team struggle all season and sink to the lower half of the AL West for practically the entire schedule. Washington, who had taken the 2010-11 Texas Rangers to the World Series, just didn't have the firepower and pitching to be a contender. The ball club finished 13th in the league with a .229 batting average and second-to-last with a 4.56 ERA...What decimated the team was Shohei Ohtani's free agent defection to the Dodgers and another year with Mike Trout on the injured list. Doctors determined on April 30th he had suffered a torn knee meniscus. Following surgery May 3rd, Trout started a re-hab assignment in the minors resulting in another injury to the same knee. His season ended in late July with 10 homers and 14 RBI in 29 games played for the Angels. The 32-year-old's future is up in the air after inking a 10-year contract extension in 2019 for $360 million dollars, paying him a total of nearly $427 million over the next twelve...Taylor Ward (75 RBI) was the team leader with 25 home runs; Zach Neto hit 23 jacks and had the most RBI (77). Logan O'Hoppe and Jo Adell both tallied 20 home runs...Tyler Anderson's 10 wins and 142 strikeouts topped the pitching staff. No one else won more than six games.
