Former major league outfielder Will Venable, the son of big leaguer Max Venable (Giants, Expos, Reds, Angels 1979-1991), was named the new manager in October 2024 following that calamitous, record breaking campaign. Venable brought a breadth of coaching experience to the job as well as some youth. At the end of April, the team was 7-23, with another long season looming on the horizon. Following the All Star break, White Sox fans may have seen a slight hint of daylight. The Sox were 27-37 when play resumed to the end of the year...The offense hit to the tune of .232 and 165 home runs. Six players reached double digits, Lenyn Sosa with 22 jacks and 75 RBI was the high man...Leading the pitching staff with seven wins each were All Star Shane Smith and Davis Martin...Twenty-three year old Colson Montgomery, summoned to the big leagues to debut July 4th, was a pleasant surprise at shortstop and unloaded 21 homers in 71 games, 255 at bats. He rang up 55 RBI. Montgomery finished number five in Rookie of the Year voting.
